A View from the Summit

"The Perfect Destination!"

Jan Sherrer - Manager - Snellville

Recently, my boyfriend Mike and I took a long weekend trip to Savannah. We wanted to go far enough away from home to be able to think of our trip as a mini vacation, and yet still be close enough so that we would not be traveling most of the time. Savannah was the perfect destination!

Savannah is an easy 4 hour drive from Atlanta. The drive was especially easy for me, since Mike drove the whole way, which of course means that we made it there in about 2 1/2 hours, including road construction traffic.

It has been years since I have been to Savannah. I had forgotten what a great town it is, with so much history and beauty; I love the Spanish moss. Savannah is a great wandering city. We tried to walk off all that we ate, but with all the good pralines, seafood, and of course Starbucks, I don't think that we even came close!

Our first day, we visited Fort Pulaski, which I had never heard of, located between Tybee Island and Savannah. Robert E. Lee helped design Fort Pulaski when he fresh out of West Point Military Academy. It was built in the marsh and is surrounded by a moat, and according to the park rangers, looks almost the same today as when it was built. It also houses cannon balls that can hit targets up to 5 miles away!

One morning as we were leaving the hotel, we decided to drive through the beautiful historic district. When we got in the car, we heard cannons being fired! We had to investigate, I mean, it's not every day that you hear the roar of cannons being fired. We were suddenly surrounded by (...continued on page 2)

Colonials. The British were coming! Mike and I had stumbled on to a re-enactment of when the British took Savannah from the American Revolutionaries. The British were actually pushing the American Revolutionaries into the Savannah River, as they did so many years ago! We were among the few spectators, everyone acted as this was an every day occurrence.

One of the highlights for me was going on a "Ghost Tour". Most small, touristy towns have them, and I had always wanted to go on one. Savannah being named as "The most haunted city in America" seemed like a good place to do a walking Ghost Tour. Mike was a good sport and humored me, and we both had a great time. We heard stories about many different spirits and hauntings, and learned a little more about the city. We were staying at the Mulberry Inn on our trip, which used to be an old Coca Cola bottling plant. I am convinced that it is haunted; I know that I heard "noises"...

It was a great long weekend trip, and we learned more history about the beautiful city, ate lots of good seafood, and learned about vanilla vodka mixed with coke- which I also highly recommend!

The Summits of Maui...

Haleakala, Maui, Hawaii

Haleakala is the most visited part of East Maui. The Hawaiian name Hale-a-ka-la (lit., house of the sun), is now nearly synonymous with the entire shield of East Maui volcano. Early Hawaiians, however, applied the name only to the summit area, the site where the demigod Maui snared the sun and forced it to slow its journey across the sky.

The Park preserves the outstanding volcanic landscape of the upper slopes of Haleakala on the island of Maui and protects the unique and fragile ecosystems of Kipahulu Valley, the scenic pools along Oheo Gulch, and many rare and endangered species. Haleakala, originally part of Hawaii National Park, was redesignated as a separate entity in July 1961. Haleakala National Park was designated an International Biosphere Reserve in 1980. Of its 30,183 acres, 24,719 acres are designated wilderness.

Industry News: Landlord opens pub at cemetery

A pub owner has bought a plot of land near the hostelry so he can turn it into a cemetery. Julian Taylor, the landlord of The Church Inn, Uppermill, Saddleworth, Greater Manchester, says regulars have already begun to snap up plots. He got the idea from his father Michael, who said he would like to be buried at the picturesque site, reports the Manchester Evening News.

Julian got planning permission from Oldham council for a cemetery with space for 8,000 people. His auntie Evelyn is now buried there. He said: "It's a beautiful spot to be buried, and a few customers have already picked out their own patch. One of them has even asked his friends to pop into the cemetery with their pints on Friday nights after he dies, so that he can still have a drink with his pals."

Mr Taylor also plans to create a garden of remembrance and wants to landscape the area so bereaved relatives can plant memorial trees for their loved ones. He said about 15 plots have already been sold - mainly to young people who are looking into the future.
