Beer Spotlight

Aspen Edge

Do carbs equal flavor? Not at all. Most of the carbs in a typical beer come from unfermented barley, hops and cereal grains. Our unique brewing process allows for more carbs to be broken down into fermentable sugars which later turn into alcohol and carbonation. The result is a rich, full-bodied flavor that compares to traditional lagers. Experience a refreshing Aspen Edge Lager today. The rich color and taste of Aspen Edge is the result of one of the longest brewing processes in the industry. And our unique brewing techniques use the same high-quality ingredients found in traditional premium beers.

Industry News

Beer can insulation

A Russian man who collects beer cans has turned his collection to practical use.

He is using them as insulation after his wife told him: "Either the cans go or I do", reports Pravda.

Anatoly Tupitsin, from Davidovka, said: "I suppose she was right, every room was full of cans and there was not much space for us.

"But now I have solved the problem by using them to cover the walls of the house and they have proved excellent insulation."

He says the idea had worked so well that he is now trawling bars and clubs every night to collect more and more cans.

Mr Tupitsin added: "My wife Ekaterina first came up with the idea and when she said it I thought she was being silly, but then I found out it really did work and the cans insulate the house and even keep out drafts.

"Bars and clubs and similar places are the perfect source for my construction material. It has become a lot warmer in the house: Aluminium is capable of holding warmth even when it is freezing outside."

The Beer Connoisseur

Chimay Blue

Take a bottle of Chimay, uncork it, smell it, already the beer is giving off its subtle aromas.

Then allow this incomparable liquid to pour slowly into its Trappist chalice. Then just close your eyes and savour it.

You are not drinking an ordinary beer, this is a Trappist beer, a beer of tradition that you are tasting!

75 cl, 33 cl (25.4 fl.oz., 11.2 fl.oz.), 9% alc. vol.

Named Grande Réserve in 75 cl (25.4 fl.oz.) bottles, it is principally distinguished by its character of a strong beer.

This is a beer whose fragrance of fresh yeast with a light, flowery rosy touch is especially pleasant.

Its flavour, noticed when tasting it, only accentuates the pleasant sensations perceived in the aroma, while revealing a light but pleasant touch of roasted malt.

This top fermented Trappist beer, refermented in the bottle, is not pasteurized.
