Weekend at Rogue

Mandi Strachota - Manager

Those of you who know me I'm sure will not be surprised to hear that my favorite beer experience was the weekend I spent in Oregon. I flew into Portland one sunny (!) afternoon and spent the evening visiting a few pubs recommended by Kevin. The next morning I drove along the coast to Newport. The drive was probably the most beautiful I have ever taken. I checked into my "apartment" at the pub downstairs, where I met Charlie. As soon as I told him why I was in town (to visit the brewery), he proclaimed his undying love for me. I thought I was in heaven with so many Rogue beers on tap in front of me. I tasted the Camomile, the Mexicali, and the Crusty, to name a few, and of course I had some of my favorite, the Mogul (I hope that you had some last month on the 15th J). I got some beer "to go" and left my tab open to go upstairs and check out my apartment. I had two bedrooms, a refrigerator, a kitchen, a TV in the living room, and bookshelves filled with books. By the time I drank my beers and took a "nap", it was past closing time downstairs.

The next morning I went to pay my tab at the pub and it had mysteriously disappeared!! I paid for my room, got a recommendation on a good place to stop on the way back to Portland, and went across the street for my brewery tour. I was shown around the brewery by a lad named Conrad. I was able to meet a couple celebrities, John Maier and the infamous Brewdog. When Conrad realized I was visiting from Summit's in Atlanta, his excitement was uncontainable. "Oh, you're one of Andy's girls!!" He then piled a sweatshirt, a T-shirt, and jars full of mushrooms on top of the bags of souvenirs I had already purchased (you'll have to ask Andy about the mushrooms).

Then it was back to Portland, where I had an appointment with Jim Cline, whom I had met at the Rogue dinner in Atlanta. When I walked into the brewpub, Jim told me to sit at the bar until they got a break in their meeting and informed the bartender that I would be on Adam's tab. After a couple frosty Rogue ales I was invited into the meeting where I was asked to tell about my experience working for Budweiser (that's a whole nother story). I met more of the Rogue family, including Adam and Billy, who proceeded to be my escorts for the evening. I couldn't tell you where they took me, but we had a great time. In fact, the whole weekend was a blast. All I had to do was say Andy's name anywhere I went and I was immediately part of their family. I met some of the nicest, most laid back people in the world and drank the best beer in the world all weekend long. I can't wait to go back. J

P.S. You can go too! Ask about our Rogue Fest in December.

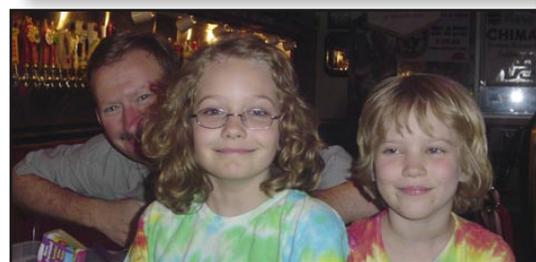

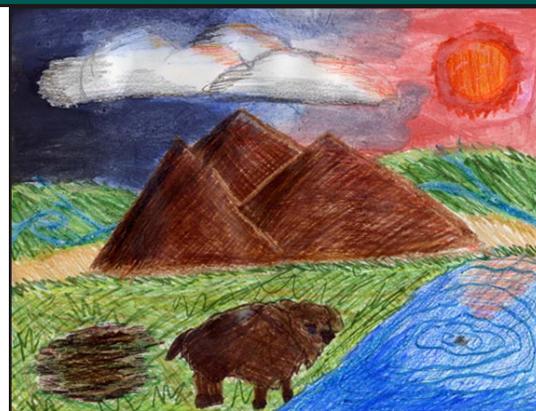

Editor's Note: Each week, we'll bring you a column featuring a thought, story, or even prose by your favorite people at Summits! And don't forget, you too can be published! Contact snellville@summitsonline.com for details!

Cooking With Beer!

Pork and Garlic Sausage Braised in Beer

Recipe courtesy Michael Symon

- 1 tablespoon oil
- 8 ounces slab bacon, cut into large dice
- 1 pound pork shoulder, cut into 1-inch cubes
- 1 onion, thinly sliced
- 12 ounces light German beer
- 12 ounces chicken stock, or more, to cover
- 1 pound garlic sausage, sliced 1/4-inch thick
- 1 head cabbage, sliced thinly
- 2 Granny Smith apples, peeled seeded and sliced 1/4-inch thick
- 2 pounds waxy potatoes, like Yukon Golds, sliced 1/4 inch thick
- 1 teaspoon caraway seeds
- Salt and pepper
- 1 loaf crusty bread

In a large casserole, heat the oil, brown the bacon and pork, remove from the pan, and set aside. Add the onions and saute over low heat for 10 minutes. Add the browned meat, beer, and enough chicken stock to cover. Bring to a boil and simmer for 45 minutes.

Preheat oven to 350 degrees F.

Add the sausage, cabbage, apples, potatoes, and caraway seeds and season with salt and pepper. Cover and cook in the oven until meat is tender, about 45 minutes. Serve with crusty bread.

Beer Connoisseur

Redhook India Pale Ale is a beer that celebrates hoppiness. The flavor of Cascade hops is the dominant note in our IPA, and it's a true English-style bitter. The distinctive style was developed by British brewers in the 1700s.

They created the sturdy beer to survive long sea journeys to far-flung colonies, where troops eagerly awaited the brew's arrival. Hops, happily, not only imparted a delightful bitterness, they also inhibited the growth of bacteria.

Did You Know?

Beer is mixed with saliva and blood for a drink that is shared when two Chagga men become blood brothers.

The national anthem of the US, the "Star-Spangled Banner," was written to the tune of a drinking song.
