What's New at the Summit?

How To Eat Crayfish/Crawfish?

Eating crayfish quickly takes a little bit of practice, just like eating lobster. The general idea is to twist off the tail, and pull, squeeze or suck out the meat it contains. There are three things which makes this task easier. One is to cook the crayfish just long enough, the others will be discussed below. Always check to make sure your crayfish was in fact alive when cooked. Some not-so-lively ones always slip through the cracks. The tail should be curled and relatively stiff. As long as you pay a little attention to this possibility, your should figure out "which one of these things does not belong here."

STEP 1: Take a sip of the beverage of your choice and talk about how big this one is.

Twist and separate the tail from the rest of the crayfish. Bending the tail sideways works better than up-and-down. The head may be discarded.

Some enthusiast enjoy tasting the spices in the body and "suck the head."

STEP 2: Peel off the narrow bands of shell material at the opening to facilitate removal of the meat (a couple sections). Holding tail, gently pinch it along its length to loosen the meat. (Just like squeezing oranges helps the skin come off better).

You may now dunk your crayfish into the sauce of your choice.

STEP 3:

With a firm grasp at the base of the tail, pull the meat from its shell. If you do it right, it will come out quickly and intact. The crawfish is completely cooked-the vein may be removed for aesthetic purposes, but it is not necessary.

Another option: Gently push the meat out with your forefinger and the FLAT/BOTTOM part of your thumb while pulling or sucking on the body end of the tail. Take a sip of the beverage of your choice or grab another crawfish. Talk about how easy that one was.

Cooking With Beer!

Beef in Beer and Onions Recipe

Beef is slowly braised with onions and dark beer to tender perfection. The onions will break down and combine with the beer to create a rich and flavorful natural gravy.

Ingredients:

- 2 pounds chuck or round beef roast, cut into 6 to 8 slices
- Salt and freshly ground black pepper to taste
- 2 tablespoons butter
- 2 tablespoons oil
- 5 to 6 medium onions, peeled and thinly sliced into rings
- 1-1/2 tablespoons flour
- 2 cups dark beer
- 2 to 3 sprigs fresh thyme (or 1 teaspoon dried)
- 1 bay leaf, crumpled

Directions

Sprinkle both sides of the beef slices generously with salt and pepper. Heat a large heavy dutch oven over high heat until very hot. Add butter and olive oil and brown meat quickly on both sides. Remove beef and set aside.

Add sliced onions to the drippings. Lower heat and sweat onions until soft and lightly browned, stirring often. Add flour to onions. Cook, stirring constantly, until the flour is lightly browned.

Add beer to onion and flour roux, stirring until thickened. Add thyme and bay leaf. Return beef to the pot and cover pot. Cook over low heat about 2-1/2 hours, until beef is tender. Check often to be sure the beef is covered in liquid, adding more beer or water if necessary.

Serve with buttered noodles or rice.

Beer Geek

Belgian Flanders/Oud Bruin Ale/Flemish Brown Ale

This term describes a style found in East Flanders around Qudenaarde. Flemish Brown Ales exhibit complex malt character, a suggestion of caramelization, water high in sodium bicarbonate, multi-strain yeasts and blending of old and new batches to add to the complexity of tastes and textures. The finished product exhibits a sour/sweet character. A light- to medium-bodied deep copper to brown ale is characterized by a slight vinegar or lactic sourness and spiciness. A fruity estery character is apparent with no hop flavor or aroma. Flanders Brown Ales have low to medium bitterness. Very small quantities of diacetyl are acceptable. Roasted malt character in aroma and flavor is acceptable at low levels. They are both refreshing and appetite-arousing.

Did You Know?

The term "soda water" was coined in 1798. The soda fountain was patented by Samuel Fahnestock in 1819, with the first bottled soda water available in 1835. The first ice-cream soda was sold in 1874 in the US.

The first cola-flavoured beverage was introduced in 1881.

Coca-Cola was invented in Atlanta, Georgia by Dr. John S. Pemberton in 1886. Pepsi-Cola was invented by Caleb Bradham in 1890 as "Brad's Drink" as a digestive aid and energy booster. It was renamed as Pepsi-Cola in 1989. In 1929, the Howdy Company introduced its "Bib-Label Lithiated Lemon-Lime Sodas," which became 7 Up. 7 Up was invented by Charles Leiper Grigg.

Quote of the Week

"Not all chemicals are bad. Without chemicals such as hydrogen and oxygen, for example, there would be no way to make water, a vital ingredient in beer."
